

Kids on the Edge

Coming to grips with the possibility that your child struggles with a learning or behavior problem can be daunting. The complexities of behavioral, developmental, and educational testing, medical and counseling options, as well as educational and support services can be difficult and time consuming. Whether it lingered for months as a vague uneasiness or it erupted suddenly with a call from the school principal requesting a meeting, now the unexpected challenges are out in the open.

Having a knowledgeable, experienced advocate on your side can help you optimize your child's short term and long range capabilities.

Advocates for Success represents more than 25 years of hands-on experience in designing & implementing solutions tailored to the needs of children & adolescents' behavioral and learning challenges. Advocates for Success Resource and Referral offers extensive knowledge of Maryland-based resources in the fields of medicine, education, counseling, insurance, and family and community support services. Private referral sessions with Janet Palmer provide the opportunity for her to apply expert knowledge to identify and mobilize the most appropriate resources for each child and family's circumstances.
